

This is an incomplete list of notable restaurants in the Las Vegas Valley. The Las Vegas Valley is a major metropolitan area located in the southern part of Nevada. The largest urban agglomeration in the state, it is the heart of the Las Vegas–Paradise–Henderson, NV MSA.^[1] A number of restaurants in Las Vegas are in casinos or hotels.

Restaurants in the Las Vegas Valley

This is a dynamic list and may never be able to satisfy particular standards for completeness. You can help by editing the page to add missing items, with references to reliable sources.

- The Black Sheep, a Vietnamese-American restaurant opened in 2017.
- Bob Taylor's Original Ranch House, located in the Centennial Hills neighborhood.^[2] The restaurant features a rustic theme with western film memorabilia.^{[3][4][5]} It specializes in steak,^{[6][7]} and is among the oldest restaurants in Las Vegas.^[8] It was originally built in 1954,^[2] as the residence of Bob Taylor (1922–2010)^[9] and his wife, with a shooting range in the rear accompanied by a pro shop serving food. It was later converted into a restaurant,^[6] and Taylor owned it until the 1980s.^{[9][10][11]} The restaurant gained prominence after making an appearance in the 1964 film Viva Las Vegas. It also became popular among celebrities due to its secluded location;^[6] originally surrounded by desert land, the area began to see urban development in the 1990s.^{[11][12][13]}
- Capriotti's, a national chain of sandwich shops headquartered in Las Vegas.
- Farm Basket, a local chain focused on fried chicken and turkey.^[14] Farm Basket opened in 1981, taking over the former locations of Picnic 'N Chicken, a San Diego chain.^{[15][16]}
- Golden Steer, a steakhouse on Sahara Avenue near the Las Vegas Strip.^{[17][18]} It opened in 1962,^{[19][20]} and has since been popular among celebrities, including the Rat Pack.^{[21][22][23][24]} It was expanded in 1978 and again in 2023.^[25]
- The Hush Puppy, a southern restaurant that opened on Charleston Boulevard in 1975,^[26] followed by another location on Nellis Boulevard in 1986. Both were started by the Ghormley family, who relocated from Arkansas.^[27] The second location had closed by 2023, when the family sold the business. The original restaurant continues to operate, and a new location is expected to open at downtown's Neonopolis mall in 2025.^[28]